

ARRANGEMENTS WITH OUTSIDE EMERGENCY RESPONSE AGENCIES

EXAMPLE #1

Local Sheriff's Department: (can be local police)

In the event of a major spill or other emergency situation, the ANY County Sheriff's Department will be called. Once the Sheriff's Department is on site they will determine if additional support should be requested from other agencies and will coordinate these efforts through the local county emergency management agency. Depending upon the type of incident the Sheriff's Department will provide for restricting, or blocking public access to streets or the effected area.

Local Fire Department: (can be city or rural)

The local CITY Fire Department is familiar with the facility via past fire inspections. The Fire Department has been provided with a list of hazardous chemicals and their storage locations. The facility has personnel trained to respond to minor fires and spills as well as other minor emergency situations. Facility personnel have been instructed to contact the Fire Department if an incident exceeds the parameters of their training or anytime they feel they cannot safely handle the situation. Facility personnel will meet the fire department at the street entrance to assist in locating the incident site and provide any requested information as to the type and nature of the problem.

Local Hospital:

The local hospital has been made aware of the facility's operations and the types of activities, equipment and chemicals, that can present a hazard to plant personnel and emergency responders in the event of an emergency situation.

Local or state Emergency Response Services:

In the event of a major spill that involves the release of a Reportable Quantity (RQ) ,the County Emergency Management Director (name) will be called. State official (name of state appointed on-scene coordinator for geographical area) at KDHE in (district office) or the National Response Center at 800/424-8802 will also be contacted.

EXAMPLE #2

Copies of this Contingency Plan have been submitted to all City and County emergency response agencies. A written agreement has been entered into with the local Fire Department to provide fire protection. All other responding emergency response agencies and hospitals will coordinate their response through the fire department in accordance with mutual aid agreements entered into by them.
